WELCOME TO Marble Falls

Nestled in the scenic heart of the Texas Hill Country along the Colorado River, Marble Falls is a vibrant city in Burnet County with deep historical roots and a dynamic natural setting. Founded on July 12, 1887, by General Adam R. "Stovepipe" Johnson and incorporated on May 18, 1907, the city now covers about 17.21 square miles and has an estimated population of 9,783 as of 2024.

Its location, 58 miles northwest of Austin and 85 miles north of San Antonio, places it in the heart of the Highland Lakes region, making it both accessible to major urban centers and uniquely positioned for lakeside recreation and lifestyle.

Historically, Marble Falls earned its name from natural limestone formations mistaken for marble that once tumbled along the river, although the falls are now submerged under Lake Marble Falls following the construction of the Max Starcke Dam in 1951.

Additionally, the city is known for Granite Mountain, a massive pink granite deposit west of town. The granite from this mountain has been used in prominent structures, including the Texas State Capitol in Austin, underscoring Marble Falls' unique geological and industrial heritage.

Today, Marble Falls retains a distinctive blend of small-town charm, outdoor recreation, and steady economic growth. The local government emphasizes preserving its historic culture and close-knit community even as the city advances and evolves.

With plenty of parks, trails and lake access, combined with a welcoming civic atmosphere and growing business opportunities, Marble Falls offers both residents and visitors a meaningful connection to Texas heritage and natural beauty.
